Sounds too good to be true, doesn't it?
Go ahead, ask the tough questions

Who trains my employees?

- You decide.
- You identify the employee skill gaps (we can help with that if you'd like)
- You identify the type of training needed (we can help you with that if you'd like)
- You choose the method of training - on-site, classroom, or a combination (we can help you with that if you'd like)
- You choose the trainer - public or private education/training entity (guess what, we can help you with this as well)

Which employees are eligible to be trained?

- Any employees for whom you'd like to increase their skill levels or attain a relevant credential.

How long does the training last?

- There is no set time period - it depends on the employers' choice of training and curriculum.

Where's the red tape?

- Okay, we wouldn't call it "red tape", but there is an application to complete. We're here to help you with that, and we can approve applications in a matter of days.
