SRMA Member Code of Conduct

The primary purpose of the Southwest Regional Manufacturers Association (SRMA) is to support and promote manufacturing in the greater southwest Florida region. A portion of this process involves providing a forum for putting individuals and organizations together in a situations and relationships where they can benefit one another. The code of conduct provides the basic guideline for behavior that will decrease the potential for unpleasant interactions between association members.

The SRMA requires that all members act in a professional and courteous manner and avoid any high pressure or coercive sales tactics when interacting with any SRMA members. The SRMA code of conduct applies to all members of the association, and violations of this code of conduct are subject to immediate dismissal from the association.
